ADJOURNMENT
1. Summer Work

Summer work is ongoing. I've been having many great conversations about content and the direction of our curriculum. Teachers are grateful to have the luxury of time to work together without interruption. I am working on creating a digital repository for the work so all members of the district can access the maps and work being created. So far this summer, we have:

- Mapped Spanish 7-12 (All 4 Spanish teachers)
- Mapped ELA, 9-12 (HS English dept, 5 teachers)
- Created a “Guide to Common Terms in English Language Arts” that will be distributed to all HS students (I will provide you with one when they are printed.) (5 teachers)
- Mapped grade 1 math curriculum (All grade 1 regular and special education teachers, 8 teachers)
- Mapped 3 new science electives at the Middle School: Astronomy, Agricultural Science & Microbiology (3 MS Science teachers)
- Alignment work between College Pre-Calc and Calculus (2 teachers)
- Mapped Common Core Geometry and created lessons for Module 1 (3 teachers)
- Mapped the HS Physical Education curriculum and revamped the online portion of the course (3 teachers)
- Participated in the Blended Learning Summit at BOCES w/follow-up work mid-August with Carol Potash (15 teachers + a few additional teachers in August)

The PE department is very excited to have chosen Schoology (a free resource and one that is used by other teachers as well) as a site for the blended portion of their course rather than the PBISfit they used last year. The site allows them to tailor the content to the activities the students are doing in class. They would like to come to a Board meeting in October to demonstrate the site.

In the month of August we will be continuing work with K-5 and 6-8 Math vocabulary and assessment alignment. High School teachers will participate in a “Literacy in the Content Areas” session with retired teacher, Chris Parker. Carol’s technology work will be happening. The kick-off for the BOCES Math Initiative occurs and PBIS work will be done in all three buildings. So it’s not exactly winding down!

2. Preliminary State Accountability Designation

In looking at the preliminary designation, it looks like the Elementary School will have a LAP designation for students with disabilities in either math, ELA or science. They have not yet specified. My guess would be math after looking at our school report card. Also we may have a designation at the High School for our 4 year graduation cohort. We will share more when we have more definites.

The state has also released initial data on the 2014 State Math and ELA 3-8 scores. They did not include the actual student score, but did give us lists of questions students got right or wrong organized by standard. We will not know the actual score (1, 2, 3 or 4) until mid-August. I do plan to use the math information by standard in our math alignment work at the elementary and middle schools.

As we started after the administrative retreat, we are opening the year with the theme, “Building a Better Future, Together.” For me, the major emphasis is on the word “together.” We have many demands that have pulled us in disparate directions: APPR, assessments, contract negotiations, etc., the hope is to generate a feeling of working together to build on the work we started last year. So, the entire faculty and staff will be participating in an activity the morning of September 2 to begin construction of a common direction and vision. As a group we will watch the Simon Sinek video clip, “Start with Why?” and participate in activities to clarify our own “why” statements. I have attached the first draft of our opening day agenda. Carly and Meghan are being a great help in getting the whole morning organized so that all staff will have the opportunity to share thoughts and ideas in an organized way. We will follow up the work with the whole staff again the morning of September 26, our next full-day Superintendent’s Conference day. Additionally, we would like to do similar work with the BOE at a retreat in September, hopefully before September 26.

4. Math Initiative

Several of our Elementary School teachers will be participating in Math Initiative through Ulster BOCES next school year. Concurrently, we will continue our emphasis on math instruction in Highland. One aspect of that will be the formation of a “Math Cabinet” a group of k-12 teachers who will meet a couple of times a year to discuss math strategies and alignment and act as math ambassadors to their grade levels or department. The hope is to create a collaborative, supportive environment for embracing the changes in math instruction embodied in the common core. I will share with you an article from the New York Times magazine at the meeting that will provide a long term guide for us as we move forward with the cabinet. I have been and will continue to share the same article with teachers as we do curriculum work this summer. I hope that it generates lively conversation about instructional strategies and practice. In case you would like a preview, the article can be found at: [http://www.nytimes.com/2014/07/27/magazine/why-do-americans-stink-at-math.html?emc=eta1& r=0](http://www.nytimes.com/2014/07/27/magazine/why-do-americans-stink-at-math.html?emc=eta1& r=0)
2013 – 2014

End of Year Report
For The
Highland Central School District
Food Service Department
II Improvements to Program

1) Canned fruit offering is now served directly onto the tray instead of cupping it individually. This is a substantial cost savings to the department in terms of paper consumption and a better use of labor hours.

III Areas of Concern For 2014-15 School Year

1) Challenges of Continued Implementation of New Regulations:
   - The amount of fruit offering for breakfast will increase to one cup. Although nutritious, this will be an additional cost to the program.
   - Reduced sodium levels in meals. Students will need to become accustomed to foods with less sodium levels. This is the first of three sodium reductions that will be implemented.
   - New guidelines for all a la carte sales. This includes parts of the meal sold separately, snack foods, beverages and condiments. These guidelines may make these items less desirable to purchase.

2) Declining breakfast and lunch sales, a la carte sales, adult meal sales and vending sales.

3) Increasing cost of food.

4) Aging equipment.

IV Recommendations

1) Offer students more nutrition education so they can understand why these regulations are being implemented.

2) Experiment with ingredients to replace the sodium in our foods. Create new recipes for students and staff that are compliant with the new regulations; items they will want to purchase.

3) Work toward eliminating as many processed foods as possible from our menus. This will mean training for our food service staff.

4) Consider possible options that will allow the food service department to become self-sustaining in the future.

5) Create an equipment replacement plan.
